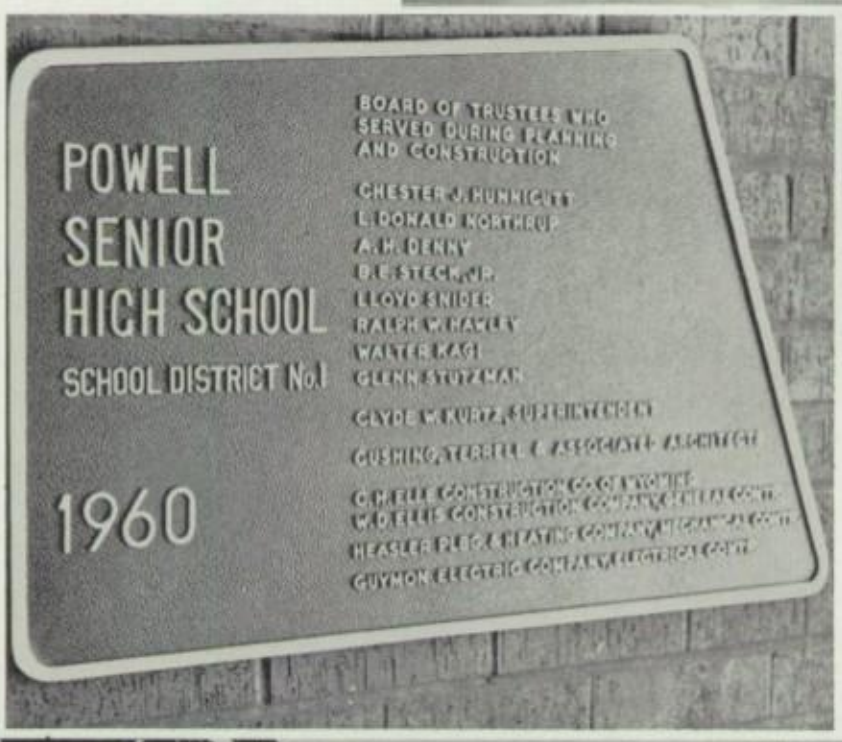
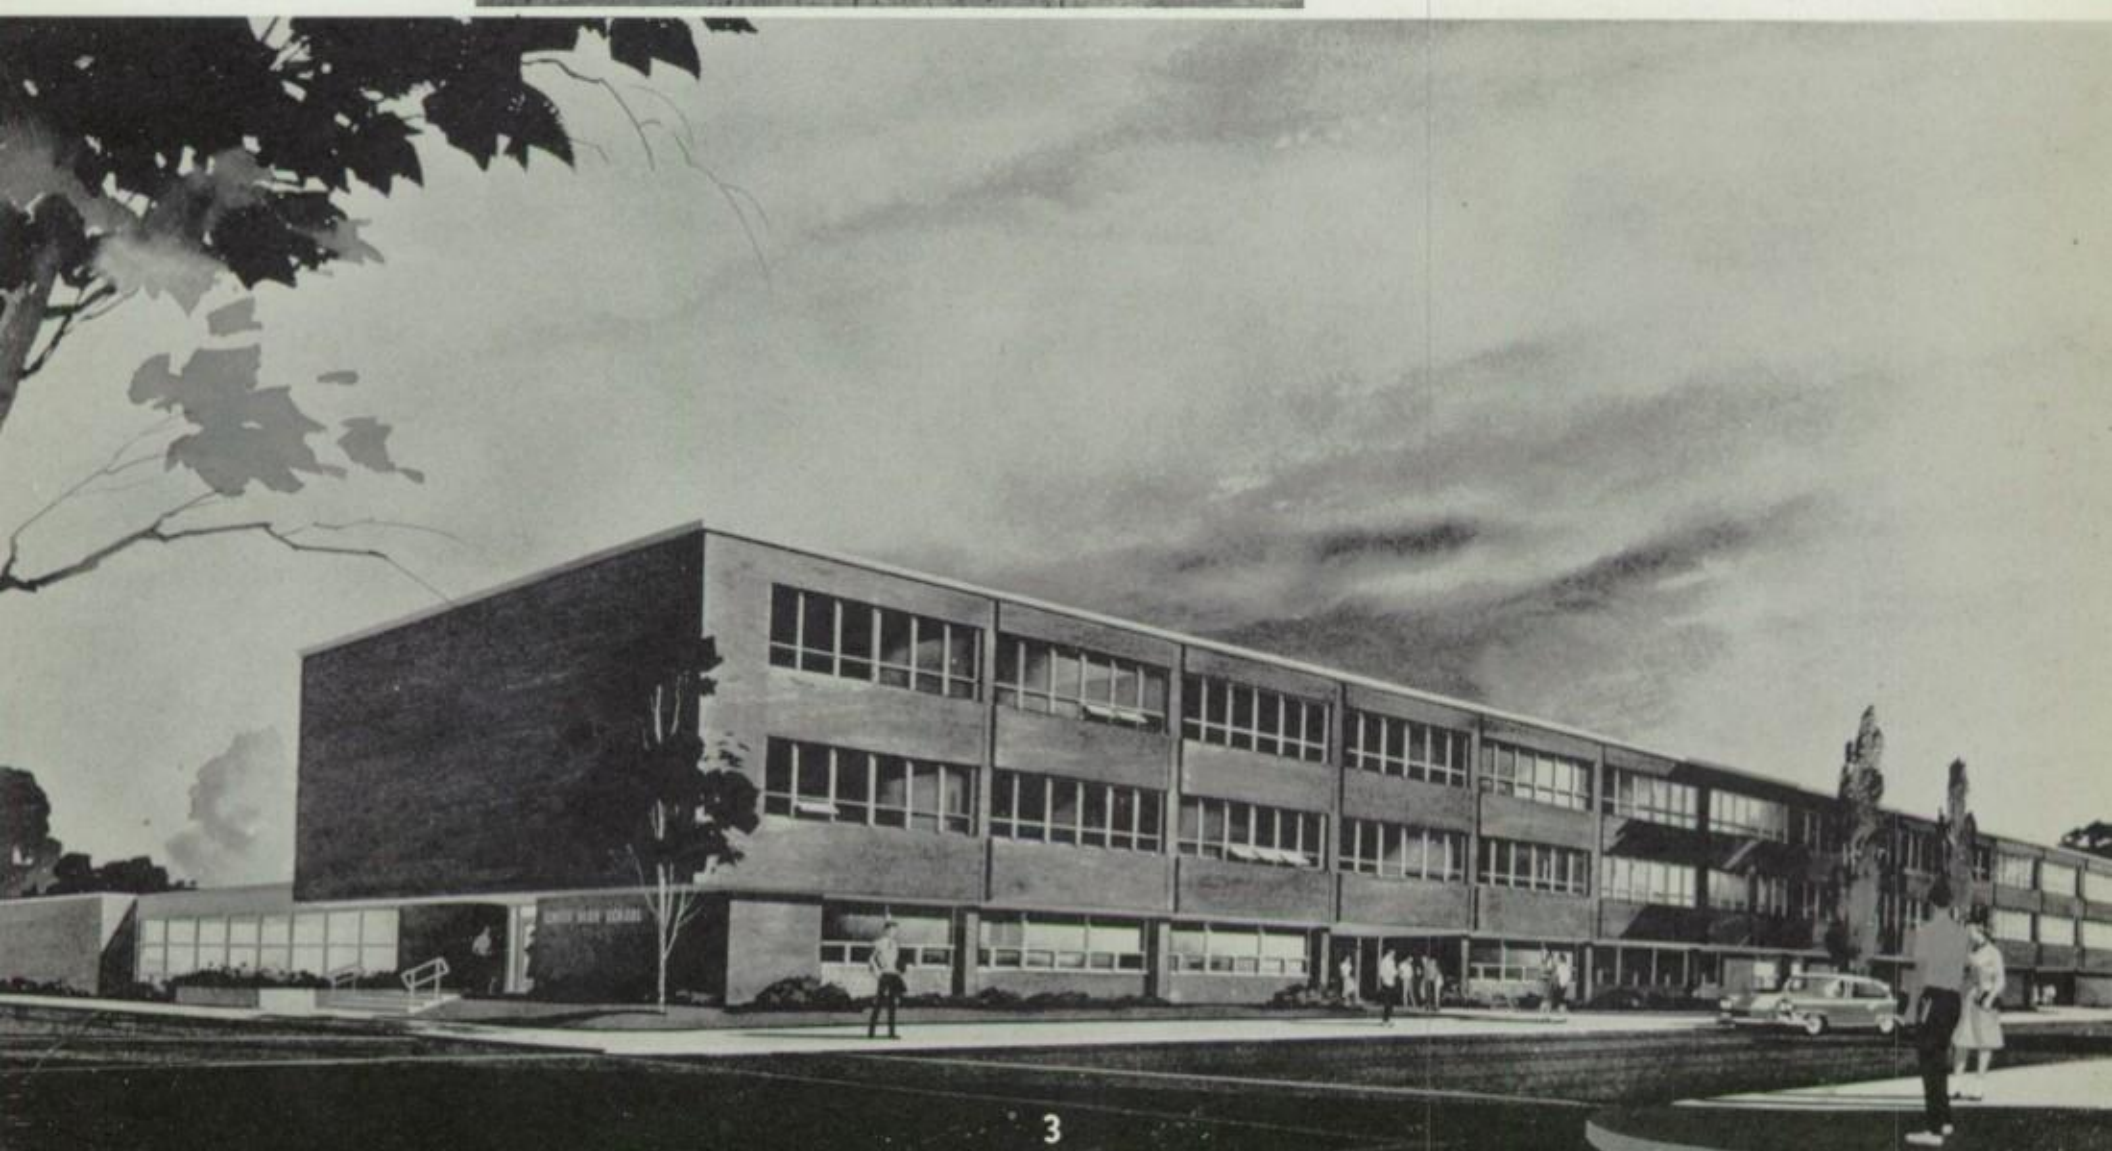
More goes into the building of . . .

. . . a beautiful new school such as ours . . .



. . . than shows through the skin.

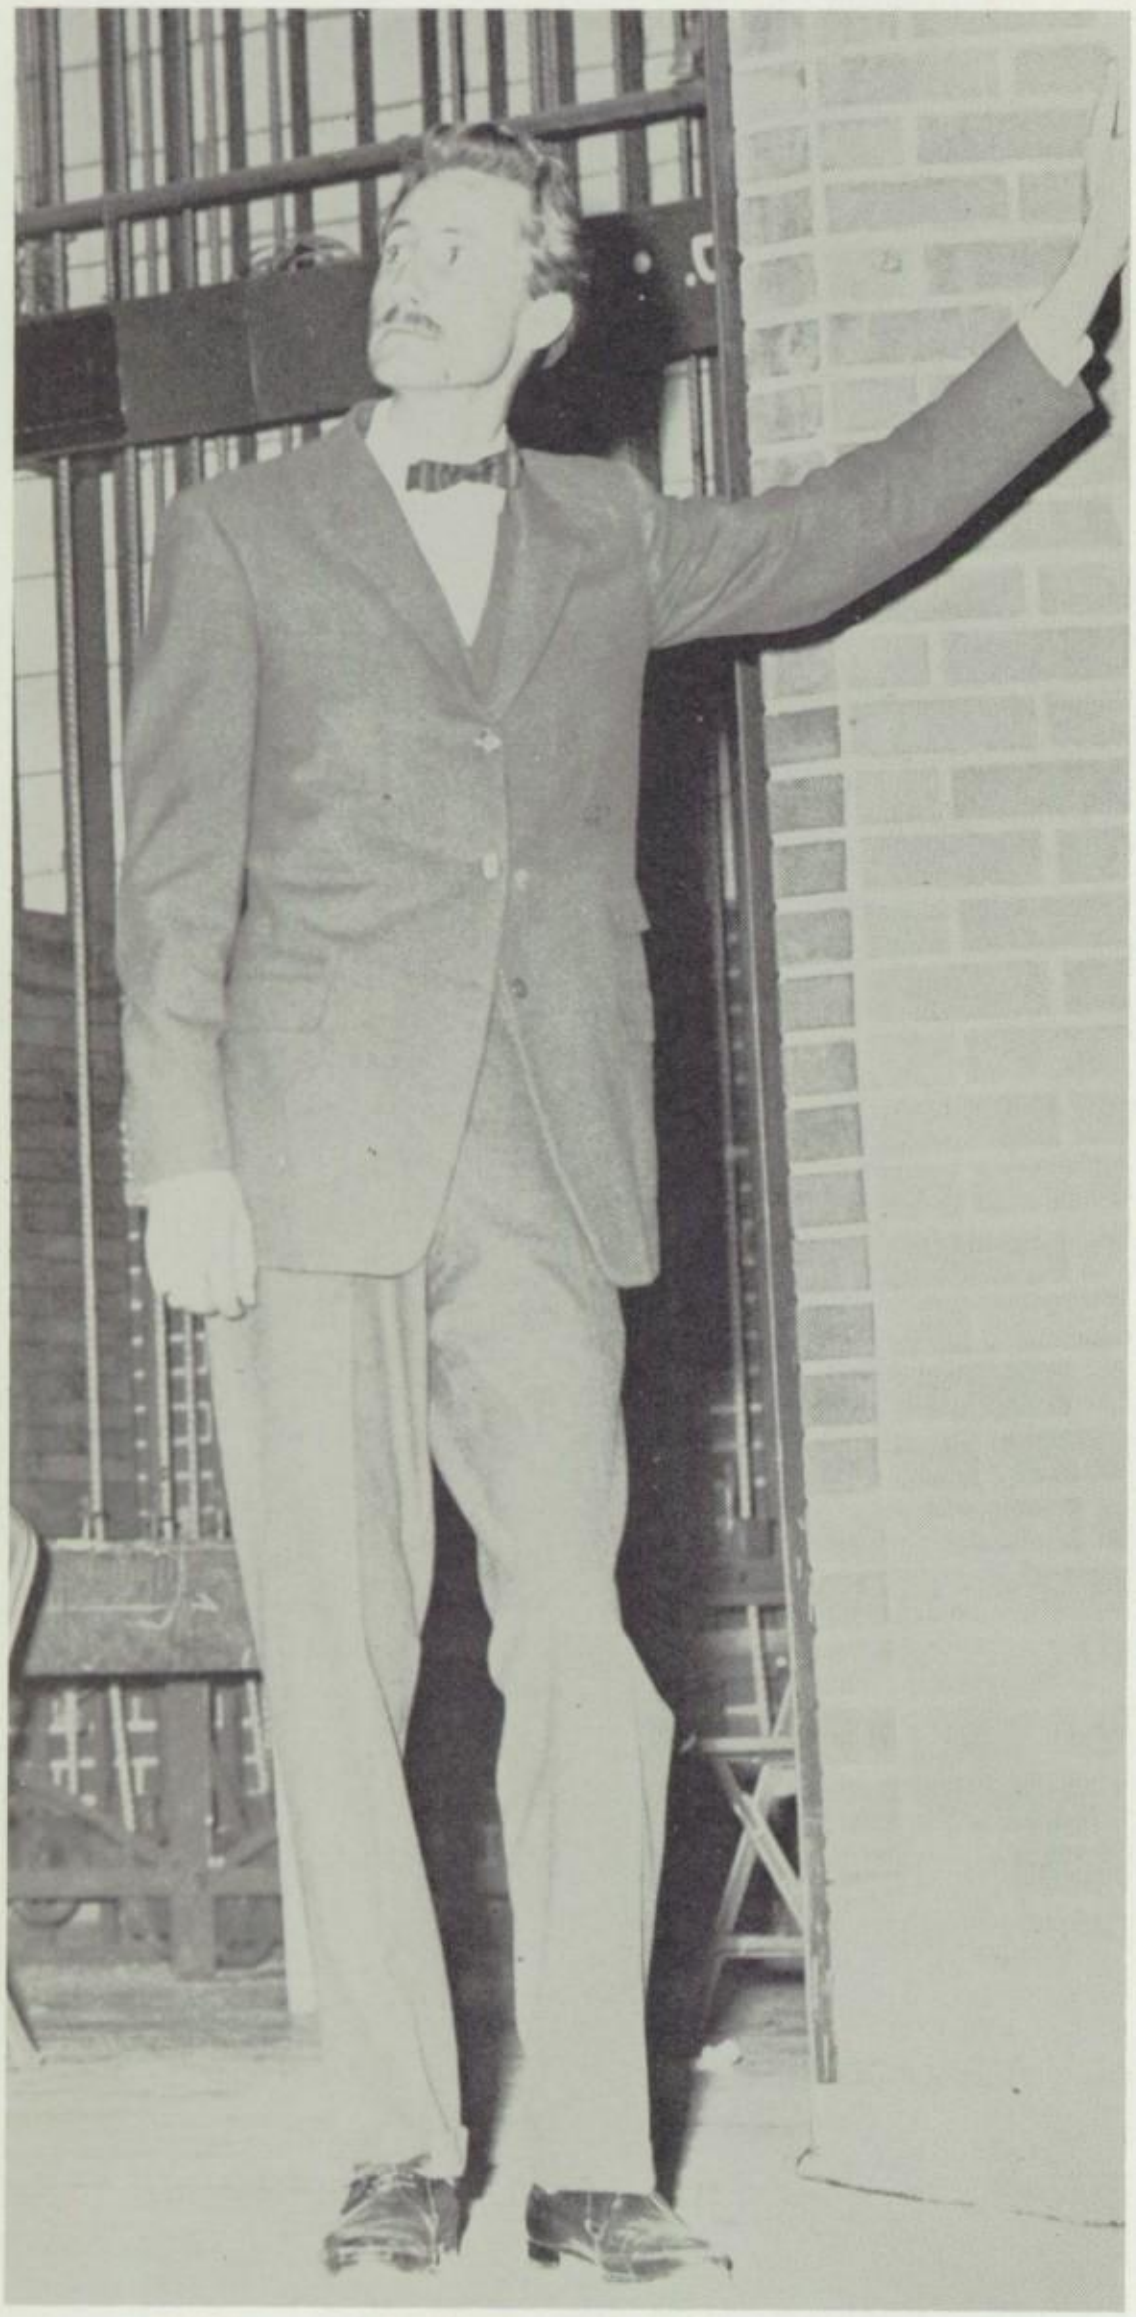


School Board members watch an appendectomy in the new T and I shop.

After the dedication ceremonies the School Board inspected the building and then turned the keys over to Mrs. Johnson with their approval. Virginia now becomes one of the selected few with over 1000 keys to keep on her chain.

This is where we wash our hand, so early in the morning

Gordon Wickstrom speaks at the first assembly



A CHALLENGE has been put to the schools, teachers, and boards of education in America. The challenge arises out of an intense period of public criticism and self-scrutiny of the schools.

. . . The true promise of education is PERSONAL AND PRIVATE, contributing to the social good as it adds to the number of educated individuals.

. . . Education is a matter of leading you to the recognition of the DEPTH AND SERIOUSNESS of life.

. . . We must help one another. That teachers can help students to learn is more or less clear to us all. But perhaps you have not thought how students may help teachers to teach better. The brash truth is that you will get the kind of EDUCATION YOU DESERVE. If you demand the best, you will get it.

. . . Not until we students and teachers cross the street and enter the building will it be a school, and the goodness or badness of the school will be the goodness or badness of ourselves. HERE'S THE CHALLENGE!

"I carry my adornments on my soul,
I go caparisoned in gems unseen . . . garlanded
With my good name—no figure of a man
But a soul clothed in shining armor,
. . . and on the stones of this old town
Making the sharp truth ring, like golden spurs!"

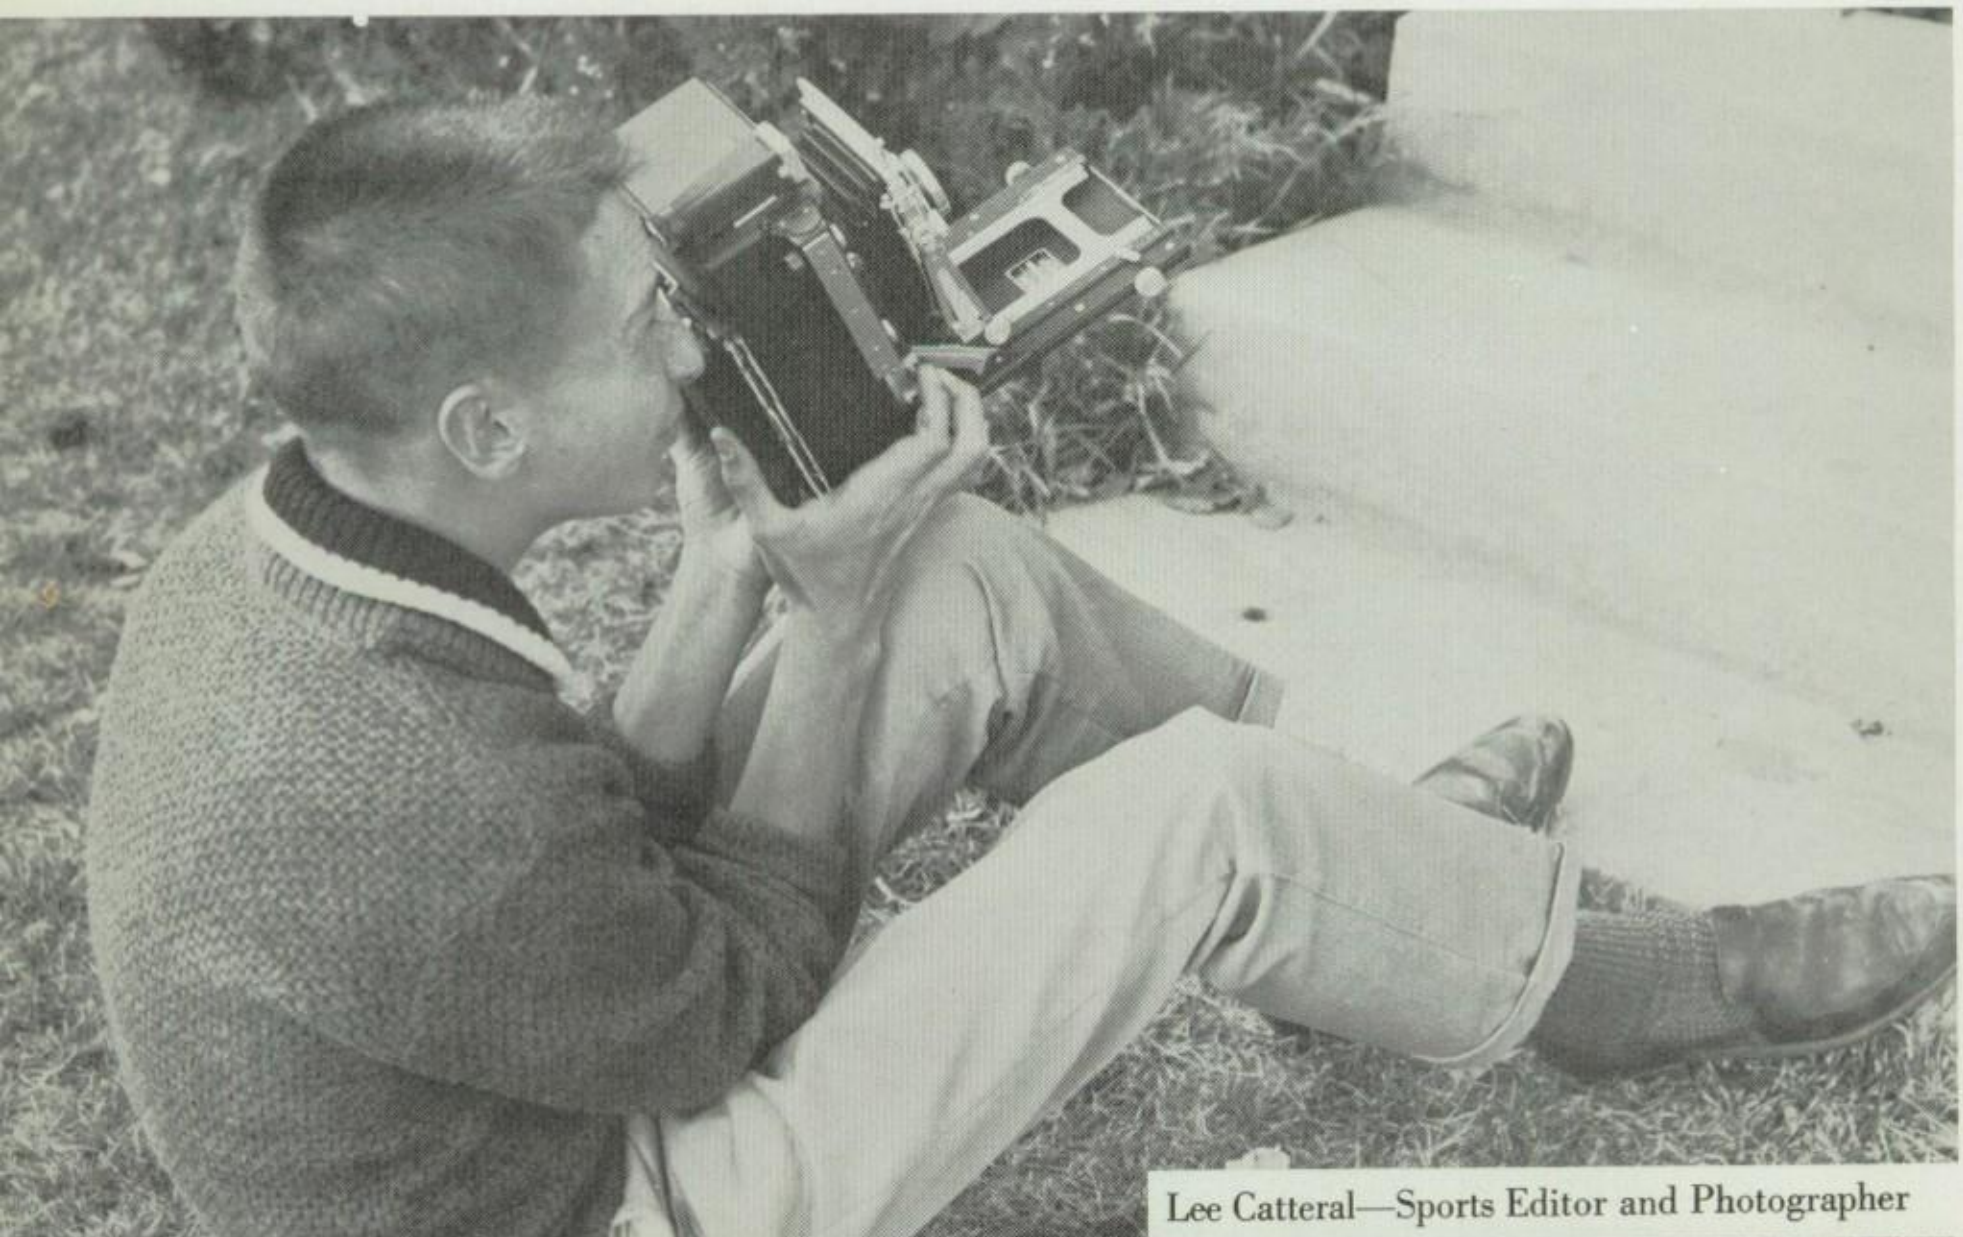
CYRANO DE BERGARAC
Edmond Rostand

No Ordinary Year in Education.

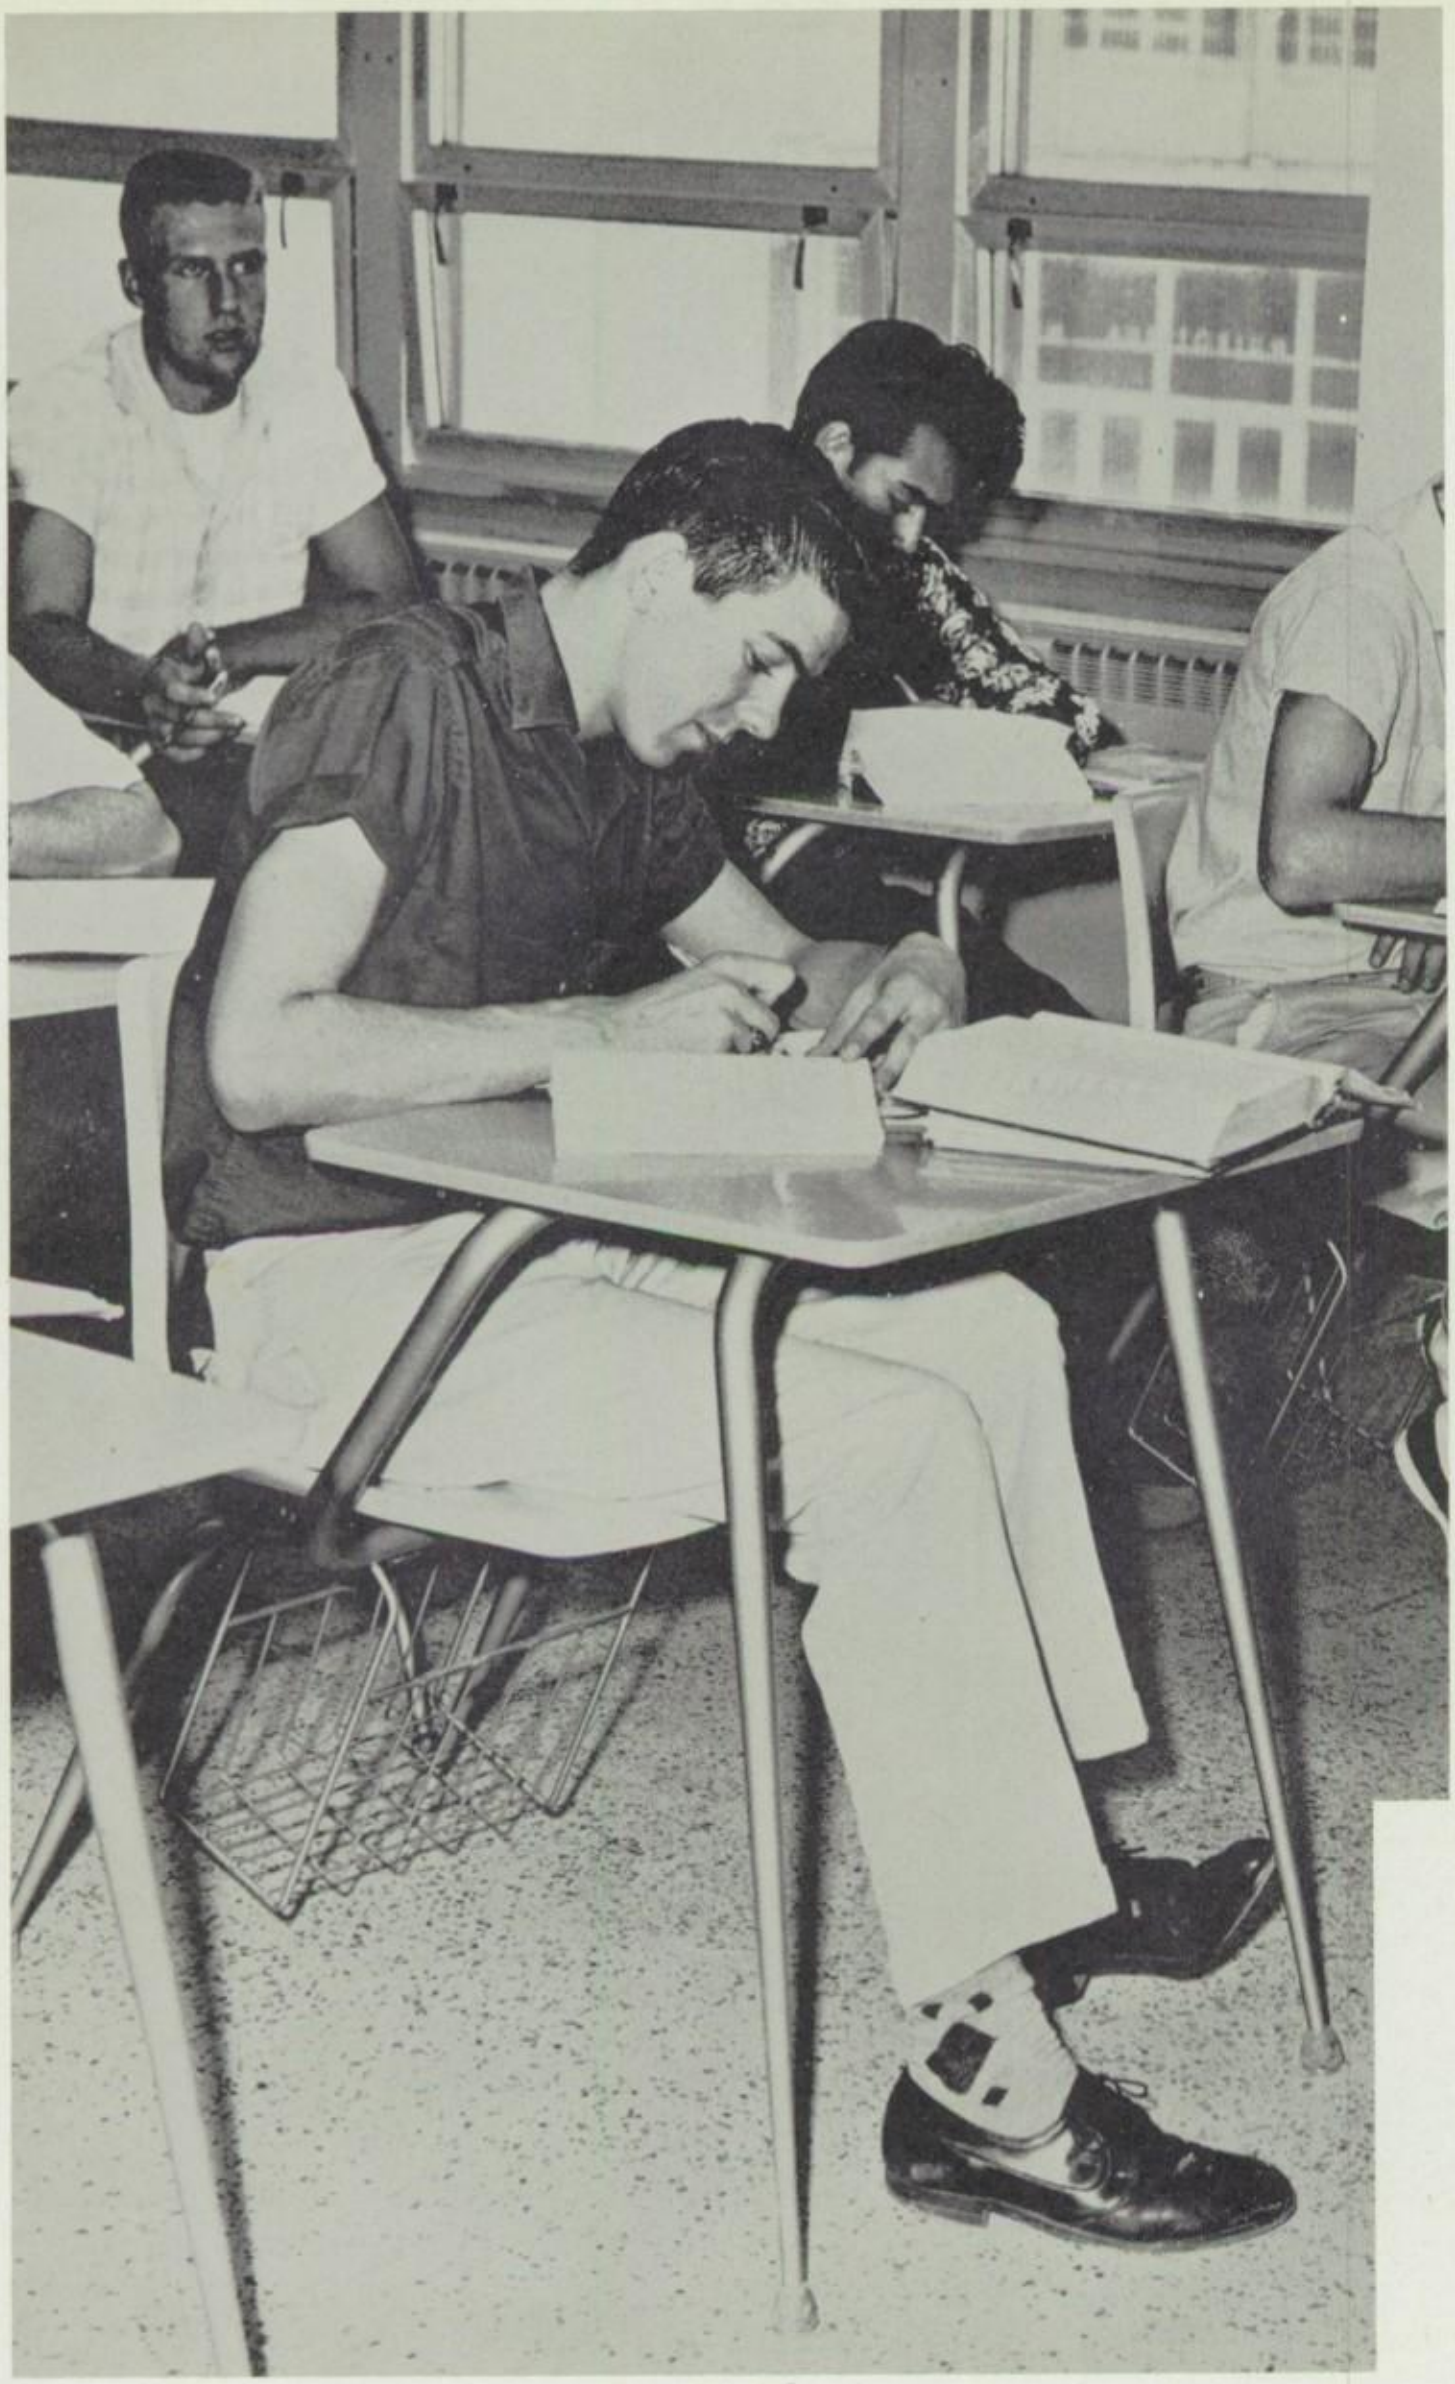
No ordinary opening of school in Powell or the nation.

This year marks the opening of a fine new school on the threshold of a new era in education. Many things have been accomplished in the first year of the new high school, but the biggest and most important achievement of all is the individual attainments of the students.

Focusing on achievements



Lee Catteral—Sports Editor and Photographer



Denny Burke—One Who Studies. That is the definition of a student as given in the dictionary. We believe that the most important aspect of a student's life is his scholastic achievement. Denny won the Science Award, is president of National Honor Society, Recipient of the Honor Scholarship to the University of Wyoming and the Kiwanis Scholarship, Student-of-the-month for April and is an outstanding senior swimmer.

Bill reaching for the ice cream at the Honor Society Initiation. Pictured from left to right are Bill Dusenberry, Teddy Ley, Ann Blood, Lewis Markley and Pat Vasek.

Bill Dusenberry, student - of - the - month for February, outstanding senior swimmer, co-captain of the team and set a record in the 200-yard individual medley. Bill won the Danforth award and the Honor Scholarship to the University of Wyoming.

Always on the receiving line.

He was Bill Dusenberry of Dusenberry Field
Respected in all his ways, not for his yield
But for ideas and things untold.
On grades he received the highest score,
In conversation, never a bore.
Powerful and mighty but gentle and meek
To see the things and problems quite clearly.
And to help us all and to love us dearly.
At times his leaves may wilt and fall
But still he stands after the mightiest squall
His roots they hold this world together
Strong in spite of terrible weather.
Dusenberry, he lives and breathes in this world of yours and mine
To hold us together stronger than twine.
Elect good people and bad people too
And see how he feels as a well-fit shoe.
And so he slept the whole night through
The result, a campaign speech totally new . . .

Taken from a campaign speech for Student Body President by Mickey Lange.

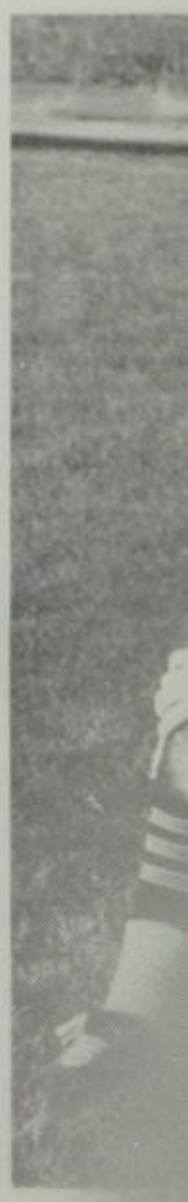
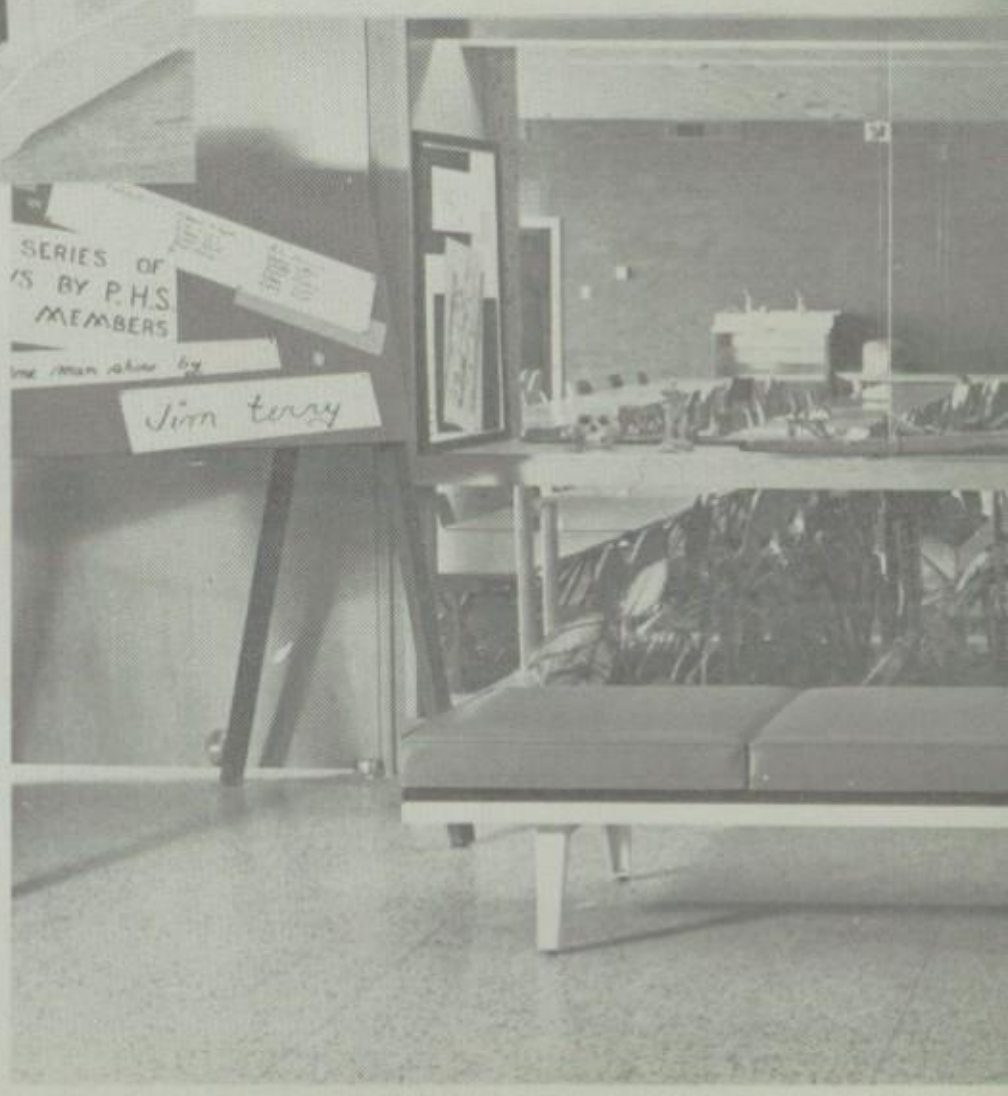
Jim Terry, chosen Powell's student-of-the-month for October, was the first person to make the all-state AA football team. He lettered three years in football and wrestling.



Steve Blood, junior, has won more awards in art than any other student. He captured blue ribbons at the State Fair, is going to Boys State and wins FFA prizes. Steve was chosen student-of-the-month for September.



Both Steve and Jim were featured in the one-man art exhibits.

Jim Terry was a winner of the senior art award, sang in all-district choir and made the Pop group.

Pat Vasek, the 1961 Salutatorian, won the Elks Scholarship as the high girl. Pat received the award as the All-round student of the Senior class.

High scholastic achievement students-of-the-month

The Lord has endowed us with His richest blessings, our parents and the citizens of the community have sacrificed time and money and provided us with the finest teachers to assure our success in our search for knowledge . . . The class of '61 has been distinguished as the class of "firsts" . . . first Catholic and youngest president of the U.S. . . . first man into space . . . first graduates from the new high school. We have conquered the first major goal in our lives. We must continue our search for higher learning, turn away from the fellowship we have had as a class, and go on to make new friends. We have tomorrow and all its promises. "How much better is it to get wisdom than gold: and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver." I cannot express my respect and love for the Powell schools, teachers, and students with whom I've spent some of the most joyous years of my life . . . May God continue blessing this community and the class of 1961.

recognized in choosing for May.

We will graduate into a world marked by contrasts. As we go into this world, we have the good fortune to be on the bright side of these contrasts. I offer you, my fellow Seniors, a challenge to build a fortress of life . . . to represent the sum total of personality and character . . . Our parents have made sure that our foundations are of the appropriate materials and built in the appropriate locations . . . Build your north wall of knowledge against the winds of ignorance and superstition, the south wall of tolerance and love that it may outreach hate . . . faith must be the east wall . . . the fourth wall of this fortress should be of hope . . . build the threshold and floor of humility. Life's challenge is based on fidelity . . . Thanks for this opportunity to speak and may we ever remember our class motto, "To strive, to seek, to find, but not to yield."

The Powell Panthers, along with Worland, Cody, and Riverton, turned Class AA and joined Sheridan to form the Northwest Conference. In the first year, the Panthers finished a respectable third, behind Sheridan and Worland. The season was climaxed by a muddy 19-7 victory over arch-rival Cody.

When the all-state team was selected, one of choices was Panther tackle Jim Terry. Tom Martin was awarded the blocking trophy at the end of the season.

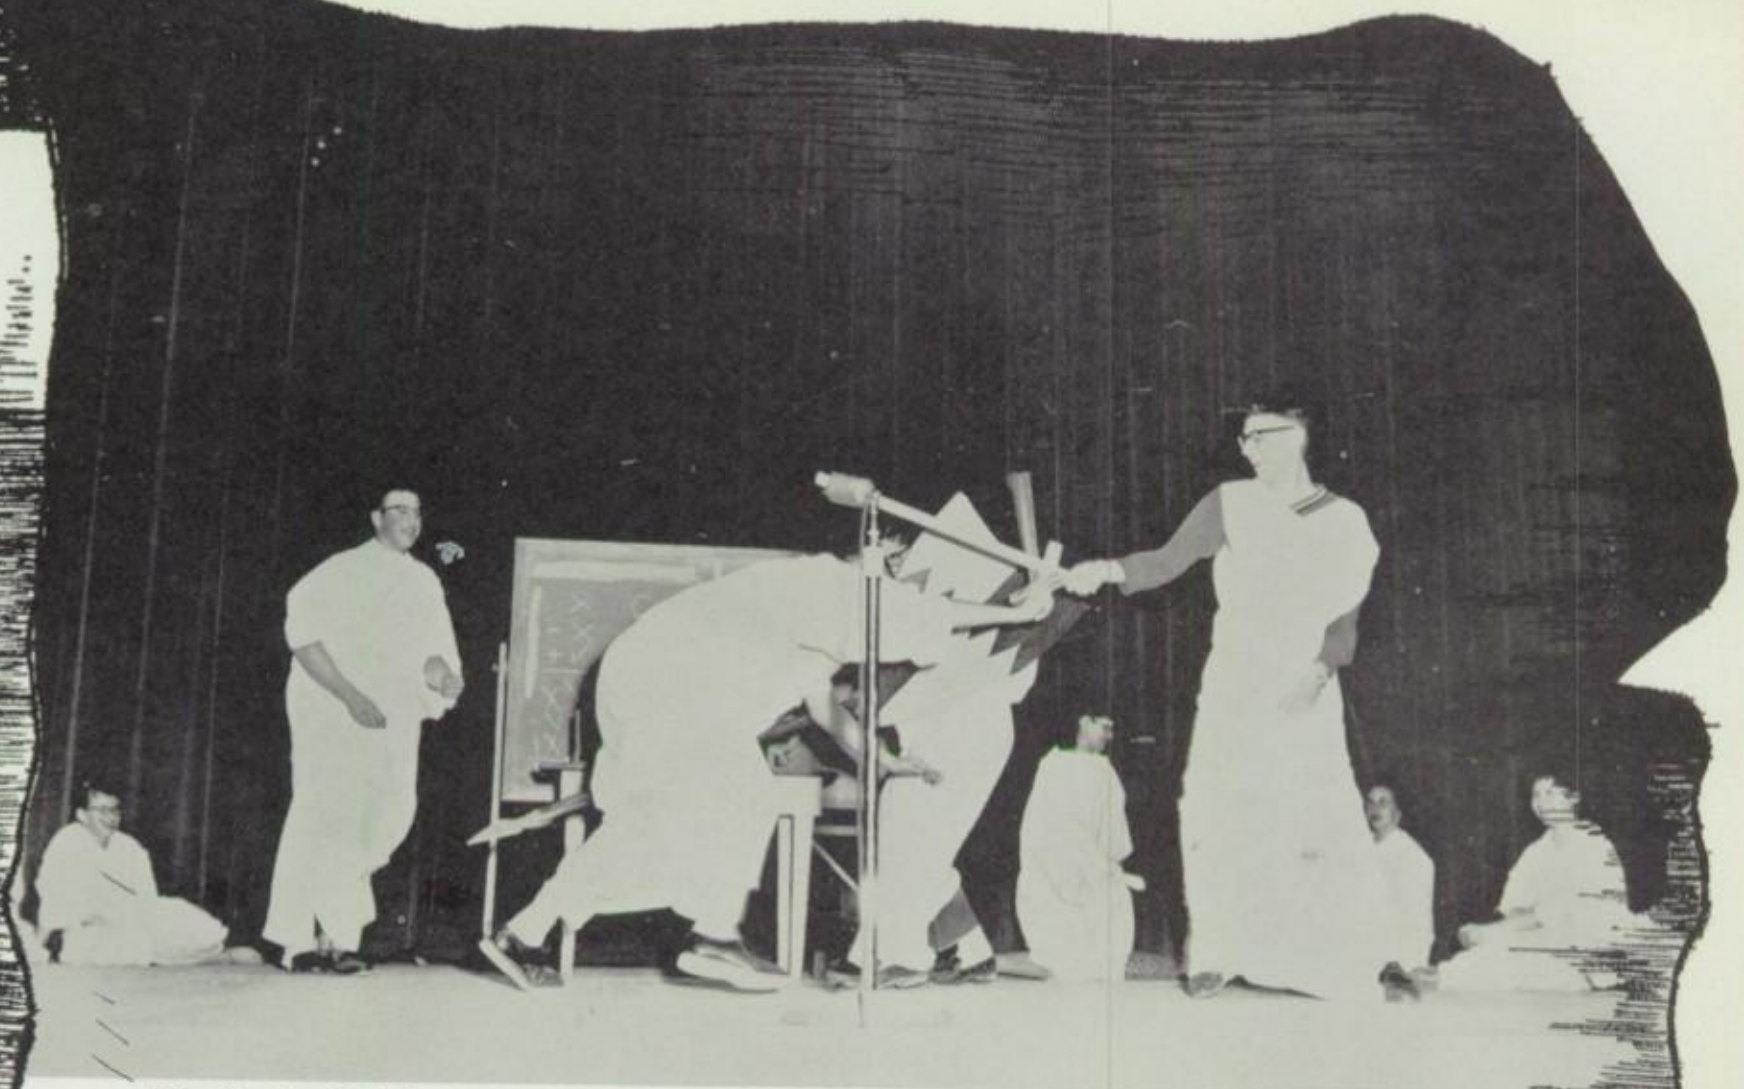
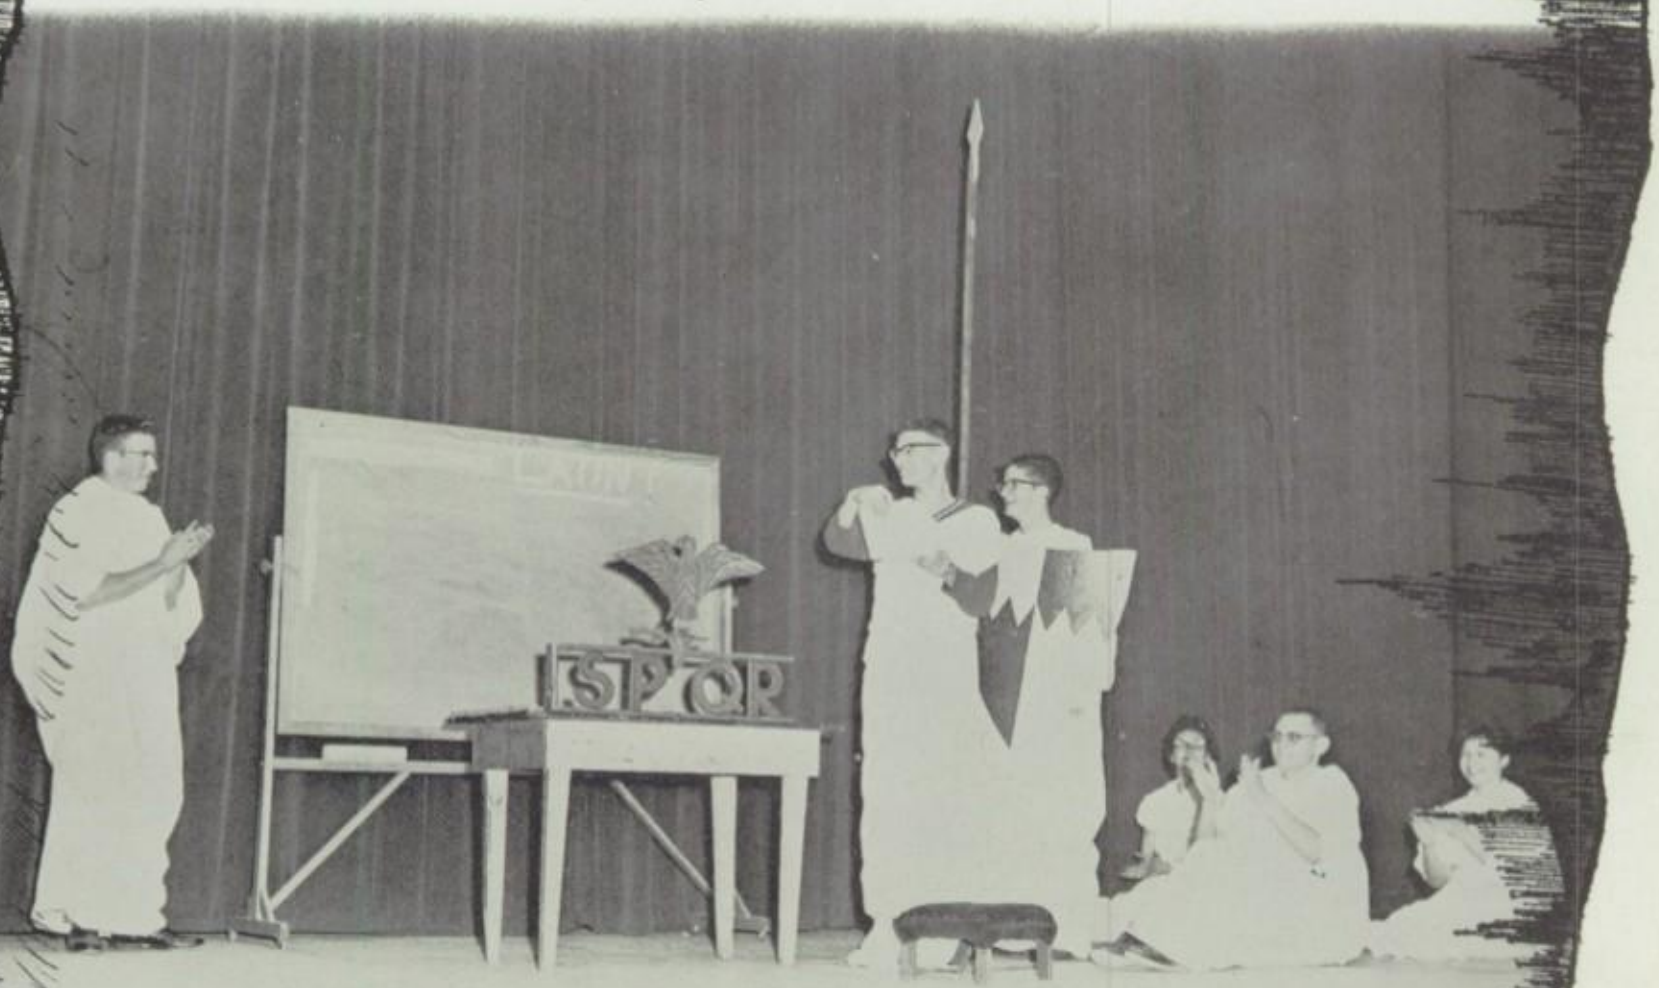
The French classes are under the instruction of Mr. Moss and Miss Bruyer. These groups contributed toward the success of the foreign language assembly which was held to interest the students in taking a foreign language.

Many of the Spanish students are in Spanish club. Mr. Aguilar has four Spanish classes this year—two 1st year classes, one 2nd year class and 1 advanced Spanish class which is the third and fourth year combined.



The Latin Club's main activity this year was helping to present the foreign language assembly. The officers of the club were Donna Moore, President, Barbara Winscott, Vice-President, and Michal Franklin, Secretary-Treasurer, and were under the sponsorship of Evelyn Petty.



"Nero," Richard Scriven, gave marvelous speeches for the classroom of ancient Rome, in poetry, too!

Queen Shirley Reigns Over 1960 Homecoming

Every girl is a queen in the hearts of others, but when a queen's dream comes true, then she is happy beyond bounds. Never will I forget the honor of being Homecoming Queen and representing the Panthers on such a memorable occasion. When next year's queen tries to tell you how happy she is, look at the tears, she's too happy to say. I know.

The Seniors worked hard to get the new cafeteria decorated for the Snow Dance. Everyone had lots of fun. There were balloons everywhere—all shapes and all sizes hanging from the ceiling, on posts, and all over the walls. "Hey, Gail, who are you looking at?" "Mike, are you really that sleepy?"

What a perfect time for dancing-December 23, 1960 — last day before vacation.

Everyone is enjoying the music played by Darvy and his Combo. The royalty reigning over the dance really looked lovely in the Christmas setting. Susan and Kay were both surprised and happy at being elected as attendants to Stanlee and Neil.

Romeo, Larry Ross and Juliet, Teddy Ley reigned over the Sweetheart Dance.

The punch table was a pretty sight. Sue Steck made 300 heart shaped cookies and placed them on a large heart shaped tray. The tablecloth

The dance was held February 18 in the cafeteria. Cupids and hearts covered the walls and there was Valentine spirit in the air. Ron Larsen, Shirley Otto, Clif Rockhold, and Joyce Green served as attendants to Larry and Teddy.

Sally and Evin Buchan, the crown bearers, look on with other members of the staffs while the crowning proceeds.

Stardust was the theme

The Junior class had something different this year, a white carpet rolled across the floor from corner to corner for the Queen, King, and their attendants. Stars were everywhere and made you feel as if you were dancing in real stardust. The Junior-Senior Banquet was held in the cafeteria with the names of each senior written on the windows and a big star was in the center of all the names. The tables at the banquet were covered with stardust and pretty centerpieces were scattered around on the different tables.

Linda and Ronnie Payne, children of Mr. Rodney Payne, Junior class sponsor, made very cute crown bearers at the Junior-Senior Prom.

The Grand March

was really something to see and not to be missed. Couples marched by two's, four's, and then eight's down the center floor of the gym. The Grand March was led by Orin Otto, Junior Class President, and Sheryl Bishopp, Junior Class Vice-President, and they were followed by the Queen and King and the attendants. The band was just great—Darvy and his Combo—no less. They really get a workout from these high school kids. The Prom was held a little earlier this year—May 6.

The Punch Table was pretty too—pink punch and star-shaped cookies.

A Queen Dances

Ann Blood made a beautiful Queen and Ron Larsen made a fine King. Ann was heard to say, "To have been selected Prom Queen was one of the most wonderful dreams I have ever had come true. Although I cannot fully explain the emotions I felt or the thoughts that filled my mind as I was crowned, I can only say—'Thank you.' The memory of a magic night will never be forgotten." Ann and Ronnie were chosen by the entire Junior class by a popular vote. Their attendants were Joyce Green, Ken Krause, Bertha Wright, and Bill Dusenberry. These people were also surprised and happy at being chosen to represent their senior class at a dance such as this.

Juniors and seniors of FTA presented a banquet this spring for teachers.

Review of 1960-61

Everyone thought it pretty cool,
When we started in the new school.
We had our Student Body president selections
And Lewis Markley won the election.

We Journalists traveled to Laramie town
Where suggestions and help we found by the pounds.
The Teachers' Convention was held in October
And none of the kids were sad and sober.

Miss Shirley Otto reigned as queen
On the night of our wonderful Homecoming;
Cheryl, Janice, Lynee and Brenda,
Served as her attendants in splendor.

The second six-weeks ended with elation
As we all went home for Thanksgiving vacation
Then the Sophomores held initiation
And the Freshmen scattered to all creation.

When she became Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.
The Annual Speech Festival was held in this town
With many students coming from all around.

Career Day, held every other year
Is judged a success by the things we hear.
We journeyed to Lovell way out in the West
And we gave those judges our very best.

And now to the Seniors we point with pride
We have had lots of fun and some of us cried.
To you go our wishes for your success
May you find just the best and no less.

Since your gate of life is opened
And these halls no more you'll trod
May you walk in sunshine always,
And always walk with God.

TERRY TURNER

1932-1961

The skills he developed in his brief career made Terry Turner one of the finest reporters on our staff and one of the most promising journalists we knew. His big smile, his readiness to take on any job, made him a pleasure to work with. Now we on LIFE mourn a double loss, professional and personal, for Terry Turner was killed this month in a plane crash—on the job. After a desperate search, wreckage of the plane in which he and Buck Duane of Lander, Wyo. had been flying, was found in the Wyoming wilderness. The two had died on impact.

Although all journalists expect to face hazards in places like the Congo or Cuba, Terry was on a quick assignment—reporting a vacation in Mexico by a group of Wyoming flyers. The crash took place when they were almost back home. The others from the party sorrowfully turned to flying the canyons in a disaster search, joined by other volunteers in planes and in helicopters .

Terry grew up in Wyoming and journalism caught him early—in the sixth grade, when he started a class paper. Six years ago he came to LIFE. Last year, taking his wife, Leanne, and two children, he left New York for Denver, to head the LIFE bureau there. Terry was an easy man to notice for he stood six feet six. We will remember him as he bounded about the paved labyrinths of the city, conjuring up visions of a giant of the Big Sky country hopping from peak to peak and stepping over the valleys.

LIFE, Feb. 24, 1961

"Some journalists fail to see the forest for the trees . . ." Featured speaker for the 13th State Journalism convention, Terry attended the first one in 1949 as editor of the PowWow.

Miss Biddle was given the honor of introducing Terry, a 1950 graduate of Powell High School. Terry and his one time sponsor talk over old times at the journalism convention held in Laramie.

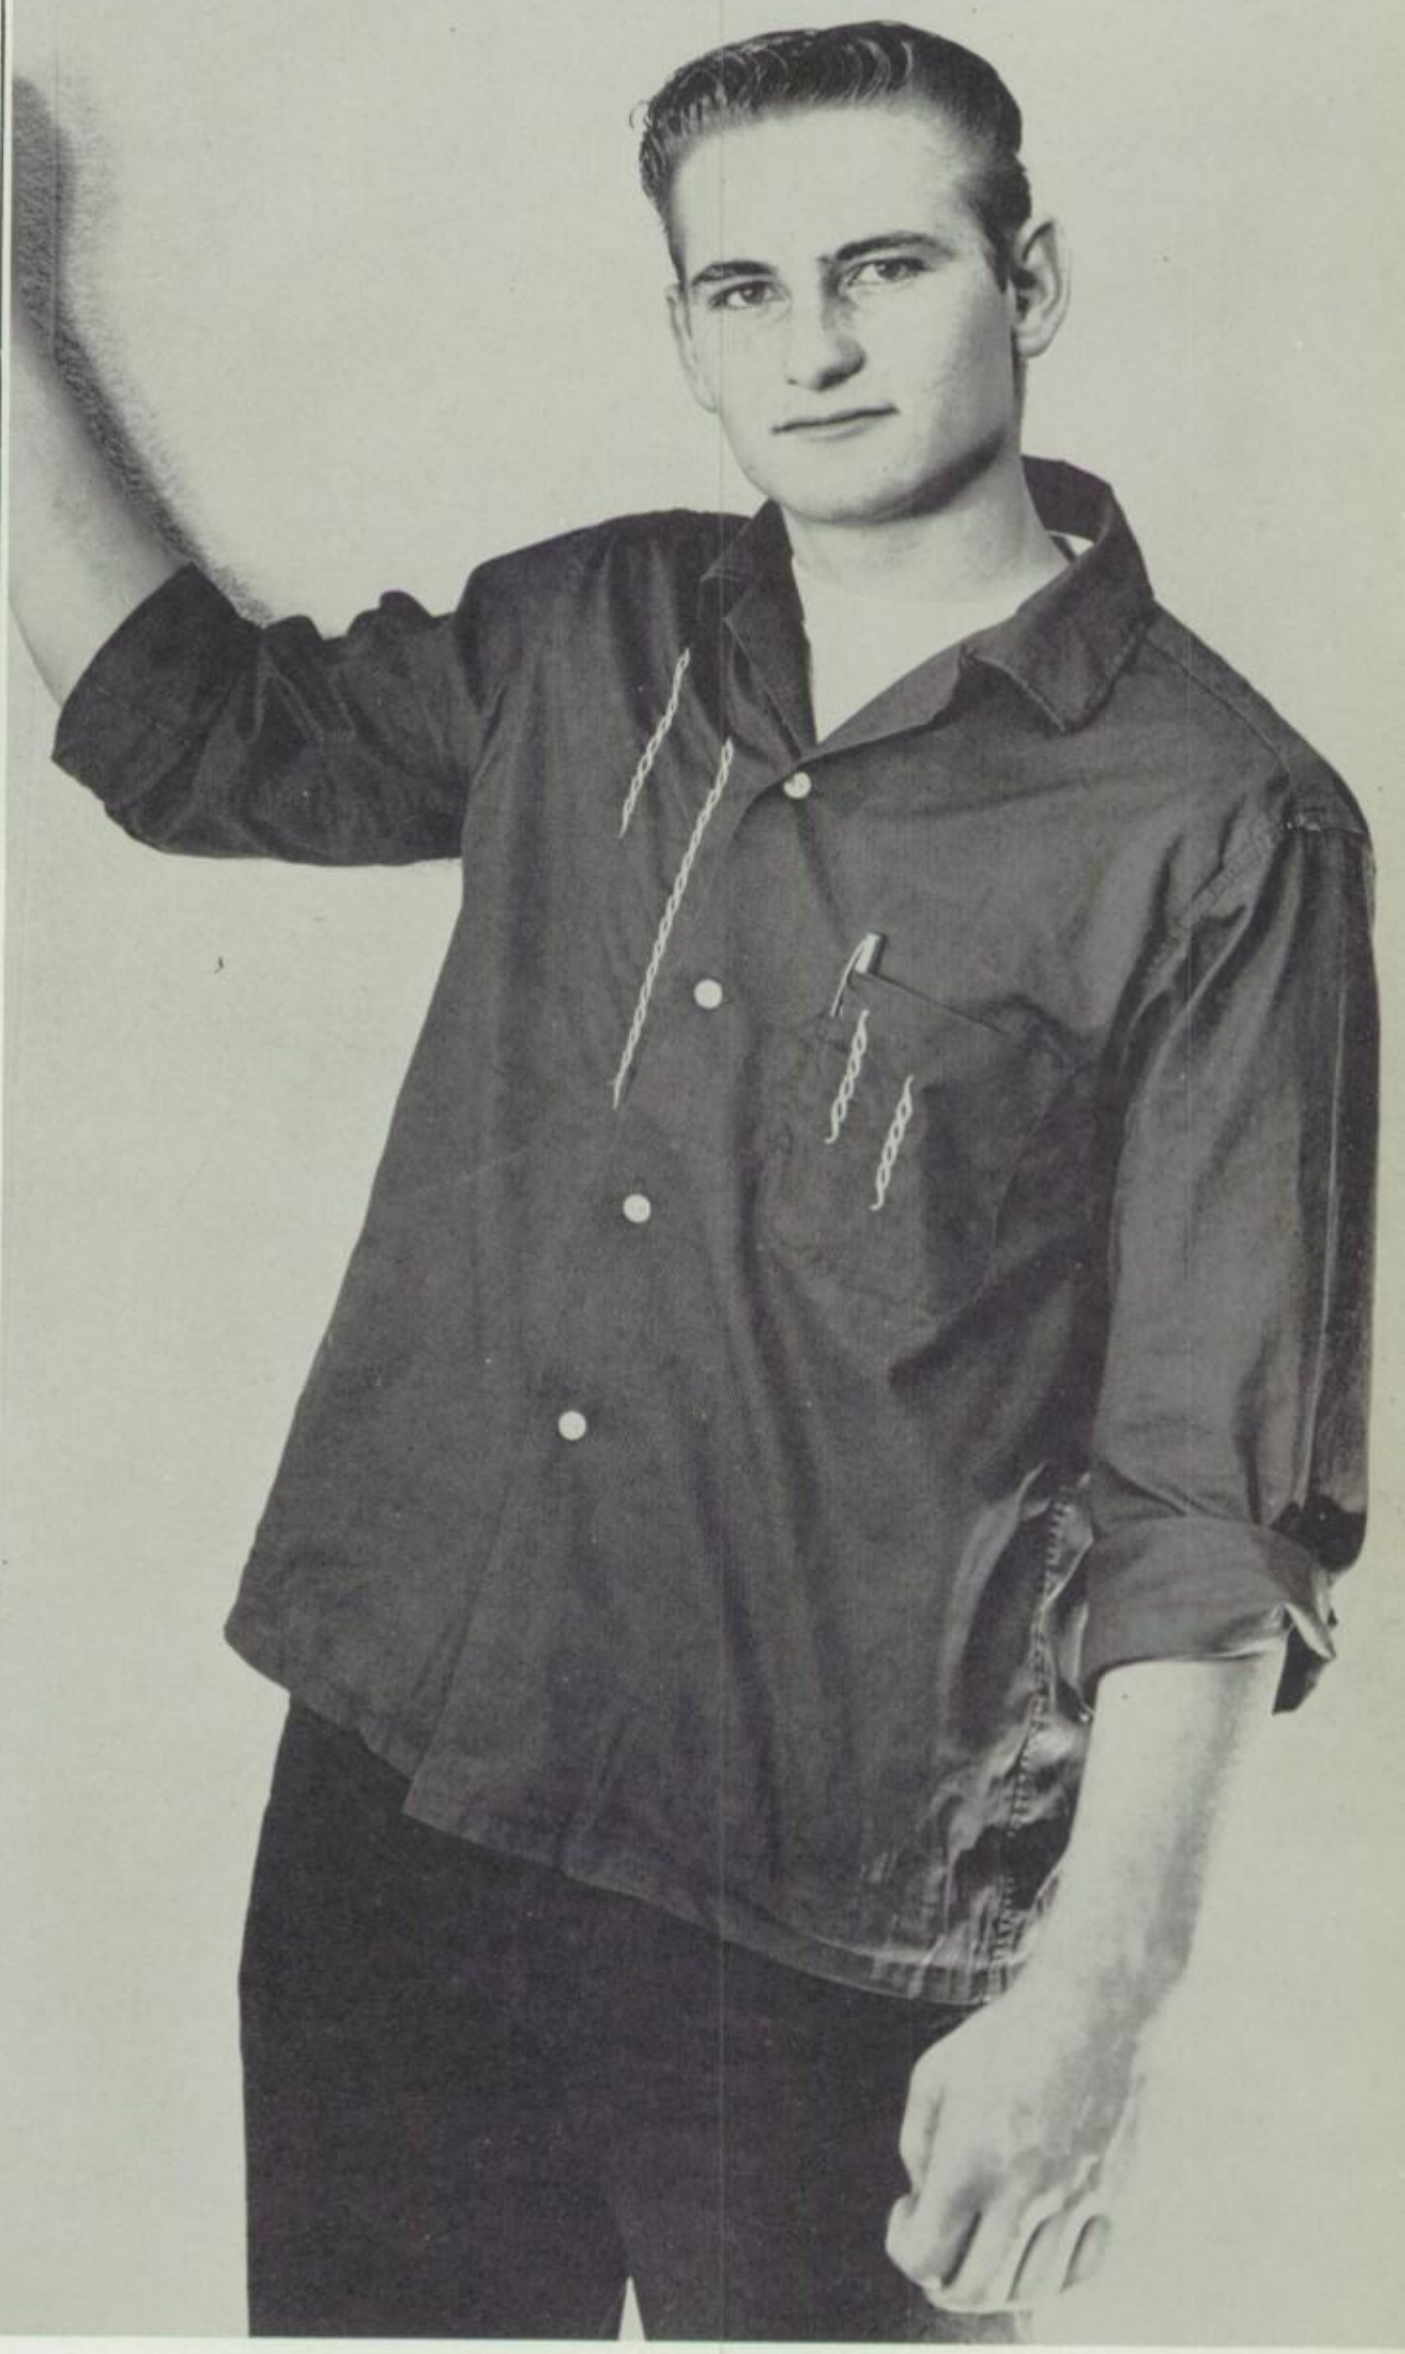
Delmar F. Somer

PATIENT LAMB
From a .22, an unguided missile.

his left shoulder, about three in. left of his spine. At War Memorial Hospital, the family doctor, Ray Christensen, found that Bruce's left lung had been punctured. He put a tube into the boy's chest, drew off blood and reinflated the lung. But Dr. Christensen, to his puzzlement, could not find the bullet.

Bruce was soon well enough for the 90-mile ride to Billings, Mont. There X rays located the bullet—in Bruce's left knee. Evidently the bullet had hit a rib, lost its momentum, entered the pulmonary vein carrying oxygenated blood from the lungs to the heart's upper left chamber. Carried along with the blood, the slug went through the mitral valve into the left ventricle and up through the aortic valve. It turned downward at the aorta's arch in the upper chest, and traveled through the femoral artery until this became too narrow. Then the bullet stopped behind the left knee. Surgeons had no difficulty removing it. Military surgeons who treated hundreds of wartime wounded said that the case of Bruce's unguided missile was a rarity indeed.

TIME, FEBRUARY 10, 1961



Luckiest Senior Alive . . .

. . . Bruce Lamb is now a celebrity in his own right. After Bruce had recovered sufficiently, Delmar Somer sent Bruce's story and picture to "Time" magazine and they published it. The article here was cut from the magazine. From a medical standpoint, the traveling .22 caliber slug was a rare experience. From Bruce's standpoint, the experience is not worth a second try.

education culminating in this extraordinary year.

Dear Judy
It's a real sweet & nice thing
you did & enjoy doing in my classes. I hope we can often meet you
& have dinner
& talk about old times & friends. Remember all the fun we had together
& our Navy days.
Good luck and stay
as sweet as you are
